

News

BCLP ATTORNEY AUTHORS ARTICLE ON LABOR SHORTAGES FOR ‘CONSTRUCTION MANAGER MAGAZINE’

Sep 28, 2021

BCLP Associate Oliver Pickford authored an article published Sept. 26 by the Chartered Institute of Building's Construction Manager Magazine concerning what happens next when supply chain disruption risks project delivery. "Parties often have a choice. They can notify the other party of a problem or keep quiet, avoid the confrontation and hope for the best. Serving a contractual notice on another party can feel impersonal, even adversarial. This could explain why many feel reluctant to do so, especially where a good commercial relationship has developed. Nevertheless, the contract machinery is in place for a reason. It is intended to provide certainty and inform the other party of the position under the contract," Oliver wrote. This article is reprinted with permission from Construction Manager Magazine.

RELATED CAPABILITIES

- Construction Disputes

---

This material is not comprehensive, is for informational purposes only, and is not legal advice. Your use or receipt of this material does not create an attorney-client relationship between us. If you require legal advice, you should consult an attorney regarding your particular circumstances. The choice of a lawyer is an important decision and should not be based solely upon advertisements. This material may be "Attorney Advertising" under the ethics and professional rules of certain jurisdictions. For advertising purposes, St. Louis, Missouri, is designated BCLP's principal office and Kathrine Dixon (kathrine.dixon@bclplaw.com) as the responsible attorney.