BIOGRAPHY

Giles is experienced in town and country planning law, and related matters such as highway and compulsory purchase. He has experience in the promotion of large retail, commercial and residential and mixed use schemes advising clients on schemes across England including logistics hubs, retail stores, build to rent (BTR) and other residential development and very large scale brownfield regeneration. He has a specific interest in large, commercial-led development in Central London, including the regeneration of Victoria and various projects across Westminster, Camden and the City of London. Giles has worked on several very large infrastructure schemes under the DCO and other regimes.

Giles is ranked within Chambers & Partners UK 2025.

Tall Building Trends in London

Tall buildings have hugely contributed to London's sense of place and rightful place as a world-leading financial centre. They have made a defined impact on the London skyline particularly in the period between 2000-2019 when the number of new tall buildings built increased significantly, largely due to a change in planning policy. For the last 10 years the NLA (New London Architecture) has been surveying trends in tall building development (which it defines as those of 20 storeys or above) across London. In this Insight we examine the NLA's recently published annual survey 2025 and what it means for tall building development in the capital.

Planning and Infrastructure Bill – The Next Step on the Road to Planning Reform

The much trailed Planning and Infrastructure Bill introduced to Parliament on 11 March covers wide ranging changes to the conventional planning process, CPO, development corporations and infrastructure planning. It is an ambitious piece of legislation, designed to support delivery of the Government's housing and critical infrastructure targets and drive growth, and introduces some novel measures.

Significant changes to CPO regime under consideration

Two significant consultations opened at the end of last year, the first by the Government and the second by the Law Commission, seeking views on proposed changes to CPO law and process. In the first of this two part series, we consider the Government consultation and what the changes it proposes may mean for acquiring authorities and those whose land or interests may be subject to a CPO.
