SHUTDOWN AND SHELTER IN PLACE ORDERS IN THE U.S.: CURRENT STATUS

May 13, 2020

SUMMARY

The United States has seen a wave of unprecedented restrictions on the way we do business and conduct our daily lives, designed to control the risks posed by COVID-19. These changes have caused uncertainty and disruption in the business community, and up and down supply chains. We are tracking the orders in real time, and can provide guidance for specific facilities, or across a businesses' full portfolio.

The United States has seen a wave of unprecedented restrictions on the way we do business and conduct our daily lives, designed to control the risks posed by COVID-19. These changes have caused uncertainty and disruption in the business community, as well as up and down supply chains.

We are helping our clients across the country, and internationally, answer the key questions raised by these new orders:

- Can I continue to operate some or all of my facilities?
- What do I need to do to ensure that my employees can continue to come to work safely?
- What do I need to do to ensure that I get the goods and services that I need to continue operating?
- How do I manage the employment and HR implications of a limited or complete closure?
- Are there any programs offering financial relief?

These orders are rapidly developing, so this map is constantly changing. We are actively tracking these orders on a real time basis for clients, so please contact the COVID-19 Shutdown Team if you have specific jurisdictional questions or require a portfolio audit.
