BIOGRAPHY

David White is a member of the firm's Tax Advice and Controversy Group and the Tax & Private Client group. David's transactional practice focuses on representing public and private companies in taxable and tax-free mergers, acquisitions, reorganizations, and restructurings, and analysis of domestic and international tax issues associated with such transactions. Additionally, David has experience providing tax advice to investment funds, real estate investment trusts (REITs), and non-U.S. investors.

Prior to joining the firm, David previously worked as a tax associate at two "Big Four" public accounting firms, focusing on the domestic and international tax aspects of investment funds and asset management.
