BIOGRAPHY

Jennifer Campbell is noted as a skilled litigator in product liability, toxic torts and commercial litigation matters. A founding attorney of BCLP's Seattle office, she primarily serves clients based in Washington and Oregon.

Jennifer focuses her practice on the defense of chemical, pharmaceutical, heavy equipment and food manufacturers in product liability and toxic tort lawsuits. A trial attorney with more than 20 years of experience, Jennifer is able to help her clients successfully navigate all aspects of complex litigation, including trial. Having taken numerous cases through trial, Jennifer is better able to provide her clients real-world, pragmatic advice to help them solve their most difficult legal issues.

Jennifer also is committed to learning her clients' businesses and industries to understand and appreciate legal issues from their perspective. This approach allows her to deliver tailored, client-focused advice and creative litigation strategies that help her clients solve problems. As such, she is central to BCLP's Litigation Practice, particularly in the Pacific Northwest, which has grown into a significant litigation hub for clients in the technology and life sciences ecosphere, including numerous Fortune 500 companies headquartered there.

She is frequently noted in legal publications as a top litigator, and is a popular author and presenter on litigation trends.
