State Laws Present Litigation Risks for Financial Industry's Artificial Intelligence Use

The financial industry increasingly uses artificial intelligence ("AI") to raise business efficiencies, improve customer experience, and limit fraud and crime. However, two lawsuits leveraging existing state privacy laws and a spate of new AI-specific legislation spotlight how this use could implicate state laws and expose financial institutions to litigation.

The Absence of a Uniform Arbitration Waiver Test in the Second Circuit Poses Litigation Challenges

Defendants considering whether to seek dismissal of a complaint or to compel arbitration have to consider when failing to compel arbitration waives their right to arbitration. Since the Supreme Court's 2022 decision in Morgan v. Sundance, Inc., 596 U.S. 411, defendants litigating in the Second Circuit face an additional challenge, namely, the differing arbitration waiver rules district courts are applying.
