BIOGRAPHY

David is a partner in the Tax Advice and Controversy team in the London office, and has a specific focus on corporate and commercial tax.

He has a broad tax practice covering corporate and commercial transactions, debt financing, restructurings and reorganisations, and tax advisory work, across all of the main UK corporate taxes.

In addition, David has a wide-ranging tax advisory practice encompassing several fields such as employment and IP.

David advises from the corporate tax perspective on the structuring and the execution of a broad range of transactional work, including corporate (M&A, private equity, venture capital and capital markets), banking and finance, fund structuring and general commercial contracts.
