BIOGRAPHY

Grace is a member of BCLP's global Employment & Labor Practice Group. Her practice spans all phases of employment related litigation, where she defends clients against claims of discrimination, harassment, retaliation, and wage-and-hour violations in both state and federal court. In addition to her litigation work, she counsels employers on a wide range of employment issues and provides guidance on human resources best practices. Grace's experience includes responding to charges of discrimination involving age, disability, race, and labor code violations before numerous state agencies and the EEOC. She also represents clients in arbitrations involving allegations of wrongful termination and retaliation.

Grace earned her J.D. from the University of Missouri School of Law, where she distinguished herself academically by serving on the Missouri Law Review and being elected to the Order of the Coif in recognition of her exceptional scholastic achievement. She further demonstrated her advocacy abilities through membership in the Order of the Barristers, an honor awarded for excellence in oral advocacy and written communication. Before law school, she graduated summa cum laude from Truman State University, reflecting her longstanding commitment to academic excellence.
