Competition law remains high on the corporate agenda, emphasised by the ongoing global crack-down on cartels, investigations into the digital economy and the proliferation of merger control regimes worldwide. At BCLP, we understand these priorities, and take a proactive approach to addressing our clients' competition and regulatory compliance needs.

Having been named as "one of the world's leading competition practices" by Global Competition Review, BCLP's Brussels office continues to provide cutting-edge advice in complex, strategically important cross-border competition matters, ranging from high-value international merger control cases to guiding multinational corporations through behavioural cases and investigations.

Our Brussels office also advises on public affairs and communications strategies relevant to the EU and other regulators worldwide that can significantly enhance and add value to our core legal advice in Brussels and beyond. We have built strong and deep relations with EU and national competition authorities through our cases and public policy work, with members of our team having served as advisors to national and international competition bodies across Europe, Asia, Africa and the Americas.

The Year Ahead For M&A Regulation In Brussels

2024 is shaping up to be a year of significant change in Brussels. European Parliamentary elections in June will be followed by the appointment of a new Commission in the autumn. After two terms and 10 years at the helm of EU competition policy (which is unprecedented in recent times), Margrethe Vestager is likely to move on from her post as the bloc's top antitrust enforcer – and her replacement will likely bring a new enforcement agenda. This article explores the top current trends and developments affecting M&A regulation in Europe, focusing on the continued targeting of “below threshold” deals via Article 22 of the EU Merger Regulation (“EUMR”), the rise of the new ecosystems theory of harm, the role of the Foreign Direct Investment (“FDI”) and Foreign Subsidies Regulation (“FSR”) screening regimes and sustainability as a factor in the substantive assessment of mergers – all set against the backdrop of the incomin...

The EU's Foreign Subsidies Regulation Goes Live as the European Commission Finalises the Notification Requirements for Businesses

The EU's Foreign Subsidies Regulation (FSR) entered into force on 12 July 2023. Its M&A and public procurement notification regimes will go live on 12 October 2023. On 10 July 2023, the European Commission (Commission) adopted its final version of the FSR's Implementing Regulation alongside the template notification forms. This gives further information on how the FSR regime works in practice, and specifies the information that must be included for mandatory M&A and public procurement notifications. We have written previously about the FSR regime at the beginning of 2023. This article looks at the new FSR regime, and what this means in practice for those doing business within the EU.

The year ahead in Brussels – the European Commission’s expanding scrutiny of M&A

As we enter 2023, the European Commission is redoubling its efforts to scrutinise transactions on a variety of bases. The focus has been on the digital sector for some time, but the impact of the Commission’s expanding toolkit for tackling perceived harms to the internal market can be felt across many parts of the economy. In this article, we explore the current trends in the Commission’s regulatory activities in the M&A space - touching on merger control, foreign direct investment, the Foreign Subsidies Regulation, the Digital Markets Act, market definition and whistleblowing - to highlight the breadth of issues that dealmakers should keep in mind to ensure they don’t fall foul of Brussels’ ever-expanding rulebook.
